“DIAMOND MISSING”

It has come to light that young Dick Lickerty was carrying what is known as the Lynton Load Diamond, when he was found dead on the outskirts of town.

Unconfirmed reports indicate that young Dick had in-fact found the infamous Lynton Load Diamond, which legend says is a rare diamond found by Frank & Florence Lawrence. The story goes that Flo was killed by a rock slide only minutes after her husband handed her the great find and he was said to have destroyed the jewel as it had bought death of his one true love.

The diamond is rumoured to be worth thousands and the good Sheriff Will Hangem believes young Dick was murdered as he left town before dawn on an errand.

Sheriff Will Hangem and Deputy Ben Dover have been gathering evidence and indicate that they have a list of possible suspects. These local community folk knew of Dick's errand after attending a meeting that was held at The Silver Dollar Saloon some hours before Dick was murdered, giving ample opportunity to murder Dick as he left town. “All we know is that Dick Lickerty is pushin up daisies, because he took on the job to deliver the Diamond on behalf of a few.” The Sheriff said. “We are not far away from naming our suspects and leading one to the hanging tree,” were the sheriff's last words.

“HEKAWI TRIBE SHOCKED AT DICK'S DEATH”

Chief Wild Eagle of the Hekawi Tribe, is believed to be secretly relieved at the death of young Dick. It is said he did not approve of the marriage between his daughter Hoping Frog to Richard Lickerty. The marriage celebrations that were set for next full moon, has been cancelled and the guests gifts will be returned. It is said that Hoping Frog is seeking comfort from Friendly Lawrence of Big Load Ranch.
